MLT AIKINS

WESTERN CANADA'S LAW FIRM

ON THE AGENDA

Join us for this privacy seminar where we will share insights on privacy compliance strategies and hot topics for individuals in both public and private sector industries. This opportunity is for all individuals whose roles involve privacy – whether they are starting out or are seasoned professionals – to ensure they have the tools and knowledge they need to comply with legal requirements and to minimize privacy related risks.

The seminar has two sessions and you can choose to join either or both:

Back to Basics

- The morning session will provide an overview of the privacy legal framework, outline the key privacy principles and strategies for privacy compliance, identify key privacy risks, and provide you with tips and tools necessary to help ensure your organization is compliant and equipped to effectively minimize privacy risks. This session is curated to give an introduction to those new to privacy, serve as a refresher for experienced individuals and educate those looking to gain knowledge in the area of privacy.

Privacy Update & Hot Topics

- The afternoon session will provide new and experienced individuals with an update on privacy hot topics and discuss the latest developments in the area including changes to privacy laws that impact organizations in Saskatchewan, new and interesting cases and decisions, cross-border transfers of and outsourcing of functions relating to personal information, privacy breaches and mandatory notifications, workplace issues and more. This session will review what has happened in the previous year and what your organization can do to be proactive.

Although each session is intended for certain audiences, varying degrees of experience are welcome at either or both sessions.

This seminar has been approved by the Law Society for 2.0 CPD hours.

This seminar has been approved by CPHR SK for 2.0 CPD hours.

SPEAKERS

Kristél Kriel focuses on privacy, freedom of information, technology, credit unions and non-profits. She advises public and private organizations on privacy and freedom of information laws, including matters such as interpretation, compliance, policy development, education, and training. She has advised a variety of organizations on privacy issues affecting their customers and workplaces, including in the healthcare context. Kristél has also advised a number of organizations on provincial and federal freedom of information access requests, as well as reviews by the Saskatchewan Information and Privacy Commissioner.

Robert Frost-Hinz provides employers with guidance and assistance in relation to a wide variety of labour and employment issues including labour relations, collective agreement negotiation and interpretation, employment standards, OH&S, policy development, discipline and discharge, along with human rights and accommodations. Robert has represented clients before the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal, Court of Queen's Bench and Provincial Court, along with a variety of boards, tribunals and arbitrators.

Danielle Graff has a general corporate commercial practice with a focus on technology, privacy and health-care law. She provides assistance to a diverse client base, including individuals, small businesses, and public and private corporations. Her experience includes assisting clients with outsourcing arrangements and procurement of information technology services and software, advising clients on privacy law interpretation and compliance issues, and providing support in the implementation of health-care IT systems and programs.

Not all speakers will present at both sessions.
